THOUGHTS TO THINK ABOUT

Say but little and mean much: It's the little man who multiplies his words to try to magnify himself in other men's minds.

Give out pleasant words and pleasing smiles to your fellows: when you scatter sunshine you will never scarce at the shadow.

It doesn't take much to make man happy if he be wise enough to be happy with little: misery is the wage of the fool's discontent.

Are you cramped and hampered in your little 9x10 room? Is your environment not to your liking? The Gazette "Rooms For Rent" columns every day are filled with advertisements of nice furnished and best located rooms now unoccupied in Janesville. Turn to the classified pages today and see what suits you.

ART IN ILLINOIS IS DISCUSSED BY CLUB

Art League Considers Art Institute, Noted Illinois Artists and Kindred Subjects.

The program of yesterday's meeting of the Art League was on the "Art of Illinois," taking in the Art Institute of Chicago and civic art of the city. It was doubly interesting, as people were more or less familiar with the subject. The topic of the Art Institute was treated by Mrs. Pember, who said that it was the best attended of any such museum in the world. Its great collection of statues and other exhibits of value placed on view very frequently. Exhibitions are often given, and there are over fifty clubs which regularly use the building for their meetings, there being several auditoriums and a large auditorium for such purposes. The large bronze lions at the entrance, modeled by Edward Kenys, are said to be the best examples of the art in the world. The fountain by Lorado Taft, "Spirit of the Lakes," was also described, being located near one end of the building.

The Artists of Illinois were enumerated by Mrs. Howard Lee, who spoke of Pauline Palmer, Fred R. Persaud, Wilson Swing, J. Allen St. John and Alfred Juergens. She also mentioned the mural paintings of Denett Grover, the miniatures of Magda Huerman, the architectural work of Howard Shaw and the sculptures of Sigmund Sjogren. A large monument to the Soldiers of the Confederacy, located near Shiloh and designed by Fred C. Hibbard, was also described.

Mr. Hurdock gave many examples of the Civic Art of Chicago, dwelling particularly on the several beautiful fountains and pieces of statuary in the parks, the murals in the city hall and the Water-Kiss fountain near the Morrison Hotel. She spoke of the Chicago plan for beautifying the city, in which the front yards of the city are to be made into parks, and the plan for the removal of Grant Park and a beautiful boulevard laid out between it and the Art Institute. The utility commission in the city has been asked to prevent unsightly buildings from going into the better districts of the city, and can condemn those whose presence is a menace to the city.

A new name was voted into membership on yesterday, that of Mrs. Cal Rose. A quantity of beautiful postcards were shown by the speaker, many of them being copies of the paintings in the Art Institute, and others examples of the Civic Art of the city.

SENATOR CUNNINGHAM CHAIRMAN OF SPECIAL HIGHWAY COMMITTEE

Senator L. E. Cunningham of Beloit representing the twenty-second district, composed of Rock and Walworth counties, was signally honored by being selected as chairman of the special highway committee in the last session and some of his ideas were incorporated into the present highway bill.

The subject of highways promises to be one of the most important before the present session and Senator Cunningham has indicated that he is in thorough accord with the administration plan of a trunk line system of state highways to be built by the state.

Senator Cunningham, who was re-elected last fall by one of the biggest majorities in the state, promises to do his best to see that the wishes of his constituents are carried out. He is also ranking a member of the committee on state affairs.

Motoring Department, The Gazette.—Will you please tell me the correct way to turn a wheel forward and the other wheel goes backward? This peculiar action is due to the construction of the differential. Its purpose is to allow the wheels to turn at different speeds when going straight. As they turn at different speeds, the wheels on the outside wheel it is turning back. So when the car is turned, the wheels on the outside wheel it is turning back. So when the car is turned, the wheels on the outside wheel it is turning back.

Motoring Department, The Gazette.—On cranking my motor recently I found it had lost compression. Previously had noticed that it had lost power. On taking down the cylinders I found some grooves along the sides. They are not very deep, but they have caused the loss of power. Would it cost very much to repair the cylinders?

GLOVER IS TAKEN TO ELKHORN JAIL

Man Held for Whitewater Shooting, Removed to County Seat for Safe Keeping.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Whitewater, Jan. 12.—James Glover was taken to Elkhorn yesterday on the complaint of Chief of Police McLane that the prisoner would be safer at the county jail. Search has been going on for the gun which Glover claims to have thrown into the river, and lights have been placed under the water but on account of weather and the search has been unsuccessful so far. Nick Ignitichki has recovered enough to leave the hospital. An operation will be performed today on the shattered eye of Chief McLane.

At the annual meeting of the Halverson Bros. Company the following officers were elected: M. G. Halverson, President; J. N. Thiele, Vice President; H. C. McGraw, Treasurer. This is a complete change of officers in the old business firm which has been contemplated several months ago. The Halverson brothers will to continue their interest in the business but will take a less active part in it than heretofore. Messrs. Lemmings and McGraw are new members of the company and J. N. Thiele has a greater interest than formerly in assembling the management of the firm.

Miss Ella Blunt is confined to her home on account of a broken arm, received from a fall. The high school basketball team were at Milton yesterday afternoon and beat the team from that city 32 to 15. David Kyle suffered a stroke of paralysis Tuesday and now he is helpless at his home on South Prince street. One sister is in the hospital and there is hope that he may recover. Postmaster Steel of Beloit made a short visit here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Vette left Thursday for New York City and other eastern cities for a two weeks trip. Rev. S. Lean of West Allis was here Tuesday in the interest of the anti-saloon league. Mr. E. J. Vette is a resident of the Sacred Heart sanitarium where she has been for the past few months.

STATE BOYS' DAY IS OBSERVED TODAY

One Hundred Young Solicitors Carry Campaign for Funds Into All Sections of the City.

Success seemed assured this morning for the Wisconsin Boys' Day campaign which is being conducted in Janesville and other cities throughout the state today by a large corps of volunteer boosters, who are endeavoring to raise a sum of $2,500 to be used for the aid of war sufferers in the United States. The campaign is being conducted by the Wisconsin Boys' Day committee, which is a branch of the Y. M. C. A. of Janesville. At the crack of a gun an even hundred young boys started out on their day's work at nine o'clock this morning. Their ambition was to personally call on 1,500 prospective contributors. Soon after eleven o'clock the boys began to return, and as they progressed, each had seen all the men on his list and each had secured a substantial subscription to the cause. At noon the boys were all gathered at the headquarters in the city hall. The success of the venture in Janesville is being forwarded to the headquarters in Milwaukee at nine o'clock this evening. Indications this afternoon were that Janesville will establish an enviable record for the day's contribution which will send as its share of the state fund.

THE GAZETTE'S MOTORIST PROBLEM DEPARTMENT

(PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.)

Motoring Department, The Gazette.—It takes care of the engine and gears. The plug takes the differential housing must be removed and more grease inserted at least once a month. Use a medium weight grease. If it does not stop the noise use a heavier grease.

Motoring Department, The Gazette.—In your motor column of next week I would be pleased to have you state the number of the car and the make of the machine rise up when you turn a corner at a good clip, or do the inside wheels turn up and the outside wheels turn down. The vapor attacks the carbon all night and makes it powdery. Run engine up and down to men. Going around at a good speed which wheels have a tendency to leave the ground? The impression is that the inside wheels have the tendency to leave the ground because the machine has a force to carry it in straight line, but when made to turn it will tend to leave the ground.

HELPFUL HINTS.

One of the causes of an engine missing on the road is a bad carburetor. If you have tried all other causes of skipping, the carburetor is the most likely cause. It is caught in the hand the water will be repelled by the gasoline and form in globules.

If you have much trouble starting your motor these cold mornings buy a good battery and use it. It will soon work out through the stopper if made up. So get a bottle with a glass stopper.

The man who invests in a box of pocket wrenches is making a good investment. They save a great deal of time and keep the nuts and bolts in better condition as they do not rust. The value of these are made in even sizes and so fit properly. The French wrench comes last but has a tendency to round off the corners of a nut. Set it up carefully and so preserve nuts and bolts from harm.

Don't leave the chalk out of your tool kit. Some of the best things you can have in the shoe every time you change tubes. It helps the tube to settle in place, and reduces friction. It also helps the tube to settle in place, and reduces friction. It also helps the tube to settle in place, and reduces friction.

Hold your hand over the breathing tube occasionally while engine is running to see if air is passing out. If the breathing tube gets clogged with a back pressure on pistons that pulls down the power of the motor.

move in a direction the resultant of the two forces. I prove it by a statement that by experience the car will skid to the outside of turn, but if the outside wheels would leave the ground and the car would skid to the inside. Am I right? Please answer my question, and I will be ever so much obliged. I am in this up in the study of motion (centrifugal force).

You are correct in your reasoning as to the operation of centrifugal force. Tie a ball on a string and roll it around on the floor. Release the string and the ball will roll from you, the part nearest you rising as it does so. In the same way the inside wheels rise as the car turns over the corner and skids away from the corner around which it is turning.

Friday's Markets.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Yesterday's average price of hogs was a weak to steady 47¢ above Tuesday, Jan. 2, low day of 1917. Prices were generally 10¢@20¢ higher than Tuesday's, but the market closed strong with prospects higher again today. Armour paid as high as $10.85 for 320-lb. porkers. Weakness developed for yesterday's late cattle, but with sales 10¢@15¢ below Thursday's best time. Lambs also declined that much, the best selling at $14. Receipts for today are estimated at 400 cattle, 22,000 hogs and 1,500 sheep, against 441 cattle, 35,733 hogs and 765 sheep a year ago. Average price of hogs at Chicago was $16.63, against $16.40 Thursday, $10.28 a week ago, $7.15 a year ago and $6.78 two years ago. Choice Cattle Sale. No choice cattle were offered on yesterday's market. There were nominally steady, while other kinds closed 10¢@15¢ below recent high time. Calves held steady, best again making the record price of $14.25. Quotations: Choice to fancy steers... $11.40@11.80. Poor to good steers... $8.50@11.25. Fat calves... $10.00@11.40. W. F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," is no more. The scout, soldier, showman and the ideal man of the young man has crossed the divide, and is on a new frontier. But his name and deeds will go down in history and last for years after the names of presidents have been forgotten, for there will never be another Buffalo Bill. It was he who did more than any other man to conquer the savage Indians in the early sixties. He was a close friend of General Phil Sheridan, and visited the general and his family often when they made their home in Chicago. Col. Cody was always loyal to his friends and nothing he enjoyed better than to have a close with one over the old days. Possibly few people of today knew him better than the writer, for my acquaintance dates back into the seventies, and in '87 we traveled together.

I was one of the last to have a long visit with Col. Cody in Chicago at the La Salle Hotel, where he always made his home when in the city, and this was six weeks ago last Thursday. It was one of the worst storms that I have ever seen in Chicago—raining, snowing and wind blowing all day. Col. Cody did not leave the La Salle Hotel until evening. When he heard that I was in town, he telephoned over to the Showmen's League headquarters and told me to stop to see him on my way to the train, as he heard I was going home that evening. I started for my train an hour or more before time, and stopped at the hotel to have a visit with him, but I had not been there long until people commenced to gather and inquire for him—men in all stations of life—and I got a bit nervous and told the colonel I thought we had better cut our visit short, as there were many people waiting to see him. He said: "Never mind, Dave, I sent for you and it costs me more pleasure to go back and visit over the old days than it is to talk to men that simply want to see me. Many of them through curiosity, and many of them want to see me more than them."

The colonel has always been democratic in his make-up and if there was anyone that had always been loyal to his old friends and associates, it was Col. Cody. When he was on the frontier in the 60's directing the movements of his men while fighting the savages, he was relentless while in battle against them, but in later years through the many kindnesses shown them, he was considered by many as their god-father and it is safe to say that today there is many an Indian in the far west sitting in their tepees and drying their tears, as they hear the news of the death of their one best friend.

For years back when at the head of his own great wild west show, when he would drive on to the lot in the morning, the Indians would salute him and in one voice yell: "Ho, Chief!"

Long before the Sidelights reach you, many of you will have read much of this life history of the great scout, so that perhaps the best I can give you will be a few actual incidents that happened during his life in the show business.

It was in 1887 while showing in Madison Square, New York, that "Buffalo Bill" visited and dined a party of old friends at the famous Delmonico restaurant. The next day the small man with an excited French accent brought the bill around to the forepaugh, and demanded payment. Mr. Forepaugh was playing "Buffalo Bill" as his one big attraction, and his salary which was a big one and also a percentage of the receipts was paid in cash, and he settled his own bills. I tried to explain to the Frenchman, but he became so excited, and holding the bill up high in his left hand he pointed with his right finger of the right to the name of "Buffalo Bill" and his O. K. of the bill, which at that time went farther and meant more to the Frenchman than anybody's signature would in the world. I again tried to explain to him that his bill was unquestionably all right, and would be paid, but I had no right to pay it nor no funds of "Buffalo Bill's" to pay it with. The man then told me in an excited loud voice that he would report me to his superior and also to "Buffalo Bill" and would have me discharged. Later the Frenchman found out his mistake and took his bill to the nearest place where it was immediately paid.

It was later in the same spring that "Buffalo Bill" took his entire show over to Europe. The boat was to sail from Castle Garden at 10 o'clock in the morning, sometime in the latter part of April in the exact date of which I have forgotten. He took some two hundred Indians with him on this trip, but was late in getting away, many of the Indians waiting away from the boat, and those who had money were soon buying more or less of the wild cow's milk, and were hard to find, and harder still to handle when they were found. Of the people of the Barnum and Forepaugh show were there to see the show leave, a dozen or so, and among them were deputized in squads of ten or a dozen to search through the different saloons and bring the Indians away from the boat. This was done, and as fast as they would bring one in, they would shove him down the long gangway into the boat, where "Buffalo Bill" obliged the untidy ones to go down the inside of the boat, and stay there until they were good Indians and could be brought back up onto deck. It was near noon before the last Indian was ready to sail for the foreign shore, and many of us had to hurry back to Madison Square Garden to our work, which was to commence from the first of the show remaining in foreign countries for some four or five years, and came back to this country in time to open in Chicago in 1893 at the World's Fair, where his show made history that will long be remembered.

Five years ago next March, the Showmen's League of America was launched on March 15 with Wm. F. Cody as its first president. This was one of the greatest banquets and entertainments ever given in Chicago and it was given at the La Salle Hotel on the 18th floor. Late in the evening Col. Cody was called upon to give a speech. When he stepped on the platform he had by his side an old friend of small stature and not standing more than five feet six inches tall, and did not weigh more than 120 pounds. Col. Cody commenced by saying: "Gentlemen, I want to introduce you to an old friend of mine—the bravest that I ever knew. This little man was born and raised in the far west and never saw a large city. He was constantly by my side for many years when we were fighting the Indians in the West. I brought him on here as my guest, and the night that he will see will be a day while in fierce battle with the Indians, that some of the boys would get separated from the others and killed, but I could always look to my right and find a face to face with the Indians, and I can proudly say one thing of him, that in battle no Indian ever saw his back."

It was after the closing of his show this last fall that he stopped over two or three days in Chicago and six weeks ago last Thursday night he was tendered a banquet by the Showmen's League of America at the Shermans. Later in the evening he gave a short address in which he told them the joy that it brought him in being able to be there as the honored guest and gave them some thing of an idea of the bigger and braver show that he expected to start out in the spring of 1917 at which all the members of the Showmen's League would be welcomed without the price, and that the pleasure would be all his.

I could go on for hours and recite instances that happened in the life of this great man, but the high price of paper, and the fact that the costs of a set type, so I will close and at some future time will tell you more incidents and actual happenings.

Col. Cody died in Denver, Colorado, at the home of his sister at 10 o'clock on Wednesday, January 12, 1917. Only a short time before his death he summoned his physician and told him he wanted him to be honest with him and tell him what his chances were for recovery, and when his physician, an old friend, told him that the sand was gradually slipping through the hour glass and that his time was short, he immediately turned to his wife and said: "I am not much cooler and deliberation as has characterized this man all through his life. And in his newly discovered frontier, may be find nothing but peace and happiness, is the wish of an old friend."

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

"Baseball is the only sport in the world that is a grim and the grim pitcher would be worth his weight in radium to the armies on the western front, where and grenades are in constant use." This statement comes from Paul Verdier, a prominent merchant of France, who is in the United States now on a furlough from the trenches. "French warfare turns men into moles, and the average athlete grows soft with inaction," he adds. "Bomb throwing is now the only athletic activity that remains. Here the baseball pitcher of course is supreme. French soldiers can pitch the grenades forty yards with accuracy. A man trained in the box on the diamond will need this distance by twenty yards and hit his human target every time."

It develops that the numerous appeal for reforms in the baseball game will be considered at Dover Hall, Cal. where the members of the national commission and others of the powers that be will assemble within the next few days to consider the next season's game, with its salubrious climate, the triumvirate should be able to proceed unhampered with its work. However, Dover Hall is noted for the fine thing and good hunting available, and the fact that Barney Dreyfuss, Capt. Huston, John Heydler, George Stallings and Wilbert Robinson and several well known players also will be there for a few days leads to the assumption that Messrs. Johnson, Tener and Herrmann will be afforded opportunity to obtain some recreation to offset arduous labors.

In October Wagner completed twenty seasons in the big league as a shortstop, barring a year or two in the outfield, and next spring will start a over again and get a "try-out" on first base with the Pirates. The forty-three-year old recruit should make good, too, judged on his record. In the course of the big show he has been at bat 10,198 times and made 3,369 safe hits, a grand average of .330, despite the fact that his last three campaigns around the bases below the 300 mark. Honus has the distinction of having averaged a fraction more than one hit per game in the 2,722 contests he has played in the National League and has stolen a grand total of 717 bases.

TOWN LINE

Town Line, Jan. 1.—Mrs. L. C. Walters was summoned to Beloit, Friday morning, because of the death of her father, Hugh Lee, who passed away at seven o'clock that morning of heart disease. Mr. Lee had been indisposed for several days and Thursday night felt quite ill, but arose as usual at seven o'clock. Feeling faint his wife assisted him back to the bed where he passed away at once. Mr. Lee was well known in this community where for a while he made his home and here he had frequently visited since moving to Beloit. He was born in the state of New York seventy-five years ago, November 10, coming to Beloit when a young boy. For nearly three years he served in the Civil war, a member of the 23d regiment, Co. Wisconsin. He leaves besides his wife three sons and four daughters: Henry Lee, Footville; Guy and Will Lee, Beloit; Mrs. L. C. Walters and Mrs. John Pritchard, town of Beloit; Mrs. Gertrude Leffingwell of Morton, Minn. The funeral service will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from the state hospital for the insane located in that city. His description is: Age, 70 years; weight about 130 pounds; blue eyes, brown hair, light complexion; never smiles or laughs and seldom speaks. When he left the hospital every article of clothing he wore was marked with his name. Any information regarding the man should be reported to the superintendent of the institution at Kankakee, or to the Rev. W. F. Brown, officiating. Services at the grave will be conducted by the G. A. R. Interment in the Beloit cemetery.

Mrs. William Moodie entertained at dinner Wednesday in honor of Mrs. H. M. Harstad. Covers were laid for six. Those present were: Mrs. H. M. Harstad, Mrs. C. Eddy, Mrs. C. Walters, Knute Storie, Henry Schumacher, D. Simpson, H. M. Harstad. Mrs. Harstad was presented with a set of silver teaspoons. Those present were: Mrs. H. M. Harstad, Mrs. C. Eddy, Mrs. C. Miss Blanche Plumb of Beloit was a guest at the home of her brother, Robert A. Plumb, at Janesville.

Daniel Smith of Chicago visited his sister, Mrs. D. Simpson, the first of the week.

Mrs. Julia Duggan, who has been quite ill, continues to improve.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin received news Wednesday of the serious illness of their son-in-law, Lowell Davis, a train dispatcher for the Chicago and North Western railroad at Grand Forks, North Dakota, who was operated on early Wednesday morning for appendicitis. The appendix had ruptured and his condition is considered very critical.

Lewis Engbreton, who has been residing on the farm known as the Cole farm, has purchased a place on the Madison road and will move there next week.

LEYDEN

Leyden, Jan. 13.—W. Pratt and son, Herschel, and Mrs. J. Gilbert motored to Stoughton to visit relatives, Monday.

May Robson An Artistic Player

Famous Star Visits Janesville and Gives a Delightful Entertainment to Myers
Theatre Patrons.

Charming May Robson, the distinguished American comedienne, tendered a new play to Janesville last night, "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt," a vehicle which gave her ample scope to display her recent triumphs, her love her sentiment and her many-sided characterizations, more so by far than in any of her earlier successes.

In this play the author has supplied the irrepressible Mrs. Robson with the best stage vehicle in which she has ever appeared. He has supplied the star with lines of homely common sense to display her extraordinary humor, that bubbled at the slightest provocation and a touch of the drama that holds water.

The story of "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt" tells of the trials and tribulations "Mrs. Matt" goes through trying to live up to the social ambitions of her husband. She has put herself in the hands of a New York maid to be "made over." The part is handled as only a May Robson could put it over. She makes you laugh, causes you to cry and sends you home with a feeling better for having viewed her comedy.

Miss Robson was most capably assisted by a fairly large company and the production was staged in a thoroughly adequate manner. Those seen in the principal roles with Miss Robson were Edith Connel, Chester Mangan, Sam Connel, James E. Mitchell, Dick Dierkes, Frederick Townbridge, Elizabeth Warren, Fred Glenn, Marie Payer, and George F. Hall.

While the audience that viewed this evening's performance was fairly large yet it was not enough to warrant the holding of this famous star to the city. It seems that the theatregoers of this city will suffer from a shortage of the attraction that has a reputation for being just a little bit shady and will let a delightful, clean, perfectly acted play like "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt" go begging. —Janesville Gazette.

CHAPTER II.

De Spain Changes His Mind.

Before De Spain had walked far he heard music from the open-air dancing pavilion in Grant street. Stirred by an idle curiosity, he turned the corner and stopped to watch the crowded couples whirling up and down the raised platform under paper lanterns and red streamers to the music of an automatic piano. He took his place in a fringe of onlookers that filled the sidewalk. But he was thinking as he stood, not of the boisterous dancing or the clumsy dancers, but of the broken lever and the defect at the fairgrounds. It still rankled in his mind. While he stood thinking the music ceased.

A man, who appeared to be in authority, walked to the center of the dancing-floor, made an announcement that De Spain failed to catch, and looked toward a young couple standing in an attitude of waiting at the head of the hall.

All eyes being turned their way, De Spain's attention as well was drawn toward them. The man was powerful in stature, and rather too heavy, but straight as an Indian. His small, reddish face was tanned by the sun and wind, and from the handsome hat down to the small, high-heeled and spurred boots, he wore the distinctive cowboy rig of the mountains. De Spain seemed to recall that this particular fellow had proved the loudest when he himself forfeited the shooting-match earlier in the day.

But De Spain, unamiable as he now was, looked with unaccounted interest at the man's dancing partner. She, too, was browned by the mountain sun and air—a slight, erect girl, her head well set, and a delicate waistline above a belted, brown skirt, which just reached the tops of her small, high tan riding boots. She wore a soft, French-gray cowboy hat. Her eyes, noticeably pretty, wandered about the platform, reflecting in their unrest the dissatisfied expression of her face. A talkative woman standing just in front of De Spain, told a companion that the man was Gale Morgan, a nephew of Satterlee, eldest of the Morgans. De Spain at once recognized in the dancing partner the little Music Mountain girl who had been his undoing at the target.

The energetic piano thumped the strains of a two-step. Gale Morgan extended his arm toward Nan; she looked very slight at his side. Then, responding with a sort of fery impatience to her partner's guiding, she caught the rapid step of the music, and together the two swept down the floor. The spectators soon showed their admiration of the dancing with unrestrained handclapping, and followed with approving outcries. Every swaying step, every agile turn proved how sure Nan was of herself, and how perfectly her body answered to every exaction of the quick movement of the dance. Gale Morgan seemed the merest attendant for his partner, who, with quickened pulses, gave herself up more and more to the lively call of the music.

Once the two swung away out, near to De Spain's corner. As Nan whirled by, De Spain, either with the infection of the music or from her nervousness to him, caught his breath. His eyes riveted themselves on her flushed face as she passed—oblivious of his presence—and he recalled how in the morning she had handled her rifle in the same, quick, sure way. De Spain could not dance at all; but no one could successfully accuse him of not knowing how to handle any sort of a gun. It was only now he forgave her, unasked, the humiliation she had put on him. He felt an impulse to go up to her—now that she had stopped dancing—and congratulate her honestly, instead of boorishly as he had done at the match.

But while he thought of this the two dancers disappeared, and a new and rougher party crowded out on the floor. "Now, isn't that a pretty bunch!" exclaimed the talkative woman again. "That's the Calabasas gang. Look at

IF THE DANCERS ARE TOO CROWDED TO MOVE, WHY NOT HAVE A MOVING FLOOR?

Sandusky, that big fellow, with the crooked jaw. And Harvey Logan, with his black hair plastered over his eyes. Why, for one drink those two fellows would turn loose on this crowd and kill half a dozen. And there's two of Duke Morgan's cowboys with them, boozing old Bull Page, and that squint-eyed Sasoon—he's worse than the others, that fellow—a fine bunch to allow in this town."

It had become second nature to De Spain to note even insignificant details concerning men, and he took an interest in and remarked how very low Logan carried his gun in front of his hip. Sandusky's holster was slung higher and farther back on the side. Logan wore a tan shirt and khaki. Sandusky, countless, was dressed in a white shirt, with a red tie, and wore a soiled, figured waistcoat fastened at the bottom by a cut-glass button.

The Sleepy Cat gossip commented on how much money these men had been spending all day. She wondered aloud, reckless apparently of consequences, who had been robbed, lately, to provide it. Her companion scolded her for stirring up talk that might make trouble; averred she didn't believe half the stories she heard; asserted that these men lived quietly at Calabasas, minding their own affairs. "And they're kind to poor folks, too," "Sure," grumbled the obdurate one, "with other people's money."

De Spain, discontented, turning again into Main street, continued on to the Thief River stage barn. After looking the horses over and inspecting the wagons with a new but mild curiosity, awakened by Jeffries' proposal, De Spain walked back toward the station. He had virtually decided not to take the job. Medicine Bend was his home. He knew every man, woman and child in the town. Before the tragic death of his father, his mother had lived there, and De Spain had grown up in the town and gone to school there. He was a railroad man, anyway—a modest trainmaster—and not eager for stage-line management.

As he passed Grant street again he encountered a party on horseback heading for the river bridge. Three of the men were riding abreast and a little ahead. Of these, the middle horseman was a spare man of frankly disreputable air. His face was drawn up into a one-sided smile. Satt Morgan's smile was habitual and lessened his stern aspect. At his right rode his cousin, Duke Morgan, older, shorter and stouter. His square, heavy-jawed, smooth-shaven face was lighted by hard, keen eyes, and finished by an uncompromising chin. Duke was the real head of the clan, of which there were numerous branches in the Superstition mountains, all looking with friendliness or enmity to the Morgans of Morgan's gap.

The yellow-haired man riding on the left, with a red face and red-lidded, squinting eyes, showed none of the blood of his companions. But David Sasoon, the Calabasas gambler, quondam cowboy, and chronic brawler, stood in some way close to the different Morgans, and was reputed to have got each of them, at different times, out of more than one troublesome affair, either by sheer force of arms, or through his resourceful cunning.

These men were followed by a younger man riding with a very young woman. De Spain knew none of the front-rank men, but he knew well Nan Morgan and her dancing partner. Gale's face lighted as he set eyes on De Spain, and he spoke quickly to Nan: "There's your handsome Medicine Bend gunman!"

Nan, glancing toward De Spain, seemed aware that he heard. She looked away. De Spain tightened up with a rage. The blood rushed to his face, the sarcasm struck in. If the birdmark could have deepened with humiliation it would have done so at the instant of the cold inspection of the girl's pretty eyes. Gale, calling ahead to the others, invited their attention to the man on the street corner. De Spain only stood still, returning their inspection as insolently as silence could. Each face was faithfully photographed and filed in his memory, and his steady gaze followed them until they rode down the hill and clattered jauntily out on the swaying suspension bridge that still crosses the Rat river at Grant street, and connects the whole south country—the Spanish sinks, the Thief River gold fields, the saw-toothed Superstition range, Morgan's gap, and Music mountain with Sleepy Cat and the railroad.

De Spain, walking down Grant street, watched the party disappear among the hills across the river. The encounter had stirred him. He already hated the Morgans, at least all except the blue-eyed girl, and she, it was not difficult to divine from her expression, was, at least, disdainful of her morning rival.

Reaching the station platform while still busy with his thoughts, De Spain encountered Jeffries and Lefever. "Jeffries, I'll take that Thief River stage job," announced De Spain bluntly. "What's the reason that fellow changed his mind?" demanded Jeffries, when Lefever joined him later in his office.

"Don't ask me," frowned Lefever perplexed. "Don't ask me, Henry. I'm odd in some ways. You can't tell what's going on inside that fellow's head by looking at the outside of it." Jeffries granted coldly at this bit of wisdom. "I'll tell you what I should think—if I had to think: Henry de Spain has never found out rightly who was responsible for the death of his father. He expects to do it, some time; and long ago some of these same Morgans lived on the Peace river above his father's ranch."

CHAPTER III.

The Spanish Sinks.

In two extended groups, separated by a narrow but well-defined break, a magnificent rampart, named by Spaniards the Superstition mountains, stretches beyond the horizon to the south, along the vast depression known as the Spanish sinks. The break on the eastern side of the chain comes about twenty miles southwest of Sleepy Cat, and is marked on the north by the most striking, and in some respects most majestic peak in the range—Music mountain; the break itself has taken the name of its earliest white settlers, and is called Morgan's gap. No railroad has ever yet penetrated this southern country, despite the fact that rich mines have been opened along these mountains, and are still being opened; but it lies today in much of the condition of primitive savagery, and lawlessness, as the word is conventionally accepted, that obtained when the first rush was made for the Thief River gold fields.

Business is done in this country; but business must halt everywhere with its means of communication, and in the Music Mountain country is still rests on the facilities of a stage line. The bullion wagons still travel the difficult roads. They look for safety to their armed horsemen; the four and six-horse stages look to the armed guard, the wayfarer must look to his horse—and it should be a good one; the mountain rancher to his rifle, the cattle thief to the moonless night, the bandit to his wits, the gunman to his holster; these include practically all the people that travel the Spanish sinks, except the Morgans and the Mormons. The Mormons looked to the Morgans for safety; the Morgans to themselves.

Washington, Jan. 12.—More than eight million acres of land was eliminated from the National forests, and more than 1,100 individual tracts within the forests were made available for homestead entry in the last fiscal year, as a result of land classification work, according to the annual report of Henry S. Graves, chief of the forest service.

den, and said, cordially: "I would like to know your address, so I can call on you."

"Oh," said the girl innocently, "I have a man."

Mrs. Mellen did not wish to offend her new cook.

"John," she said to the manservant, "can you find out without asking the cook whether the tinned salmon was all eaten last night? You see, I don't wish to ask her, because she may have eaten it, and then she would feel uncomfortable," added the good soul.

"If you please, ma'am," replied the man, "the new cook has eaten the tinned salmon, and if you was to say anything to her you couldn't make her feel any more uncomfortable than she is."

Things looked black for the dramatist. For the fourth time in one season a play had been withdrawn after a week's run. "Cheer up, old man," said a consoling friend. "Perhaps posterity will recognize the genius displayed in your plays."

"Maybe," said the dramatist bitterly, "but the difficulty is that so far as I am concerned posterity is on the free list."

The lady of a good family was showing her ancestral home to her small son. She pointed with special pride to a bust of her father.

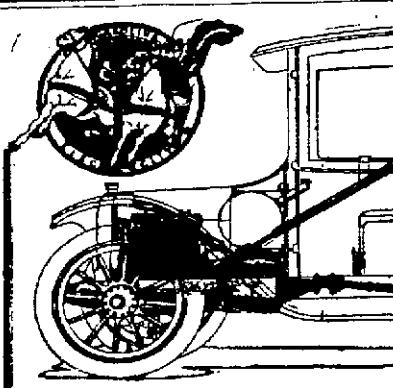

"And that, Bobbie," she said, "is your grandfather."

Bobbie looked somewhat perplexed.

"Is that all there was of him?" he asked.

With everything set for the first of the season's rumbles between the Lakota Cardinals and Fogarty's Rockford aggregation, Janesville fans are anxiously waiting for the whistle at nine tonight. The two lineups announced yesterday assured this city that the game tonight will be one of the season's best, and the long standing bitter rivalry between the teams will make it a light from whistle to whistle. Fogarty, Young, Murphy and Charity are all well known to Cardinal followers. Carmichael, the new center, was picked out of some small Illinois team with which the Rockford boys had a game. According to those who have seen him, the man is a wonder, and will keep Eddie Atwood on the jump every minute of play.

After last Saturday's game in which the Lakotas played with a bunch of strange men, it will be a relief to see Dalton and Edgerly lined up together, and Knapp form a welcome pair in Janesville, when they are playing with Caldwell's bunch. Both attached squads will make the most of the basketball by bringing victory to the Milwaukee Normal team last year. This year they are both playing with the freshmen at the university, and have all appeared opposite Janesville basketball men.

That the game will not be slow nor particularly gentle is an assured fact. The two defuncts taken last year by Rockford from the Cards still rank in the minds of Fogarty, Young, et al. Vengeance is the aim of the Illinois team, and vengeance has never yet been a vain thing. It is to be hoped, however, that no matter how hot becomes the fight or how exciting are the plays, that with all their cheering the Janesville fans will maintain good sportsman and not give an exhibition of childishness like the one last week when Edler was booed and shouted for no better reason than that he was playing better than the other.

The game tonight is scheduled to start at nine o'clock. Indications are that a record crowd will attend. Interest in the local team grows as a realization of its prowess comes to all who have followed the sport this year, and who know the type of players that Manager Caldwell is playing on the Cardinal team.

EDGERTON HIGHS TRIM SUN PRAIRIE YESTERDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, Jan. 12.—The Edgerton high school team showed considerable improvement in teamwork and passing in their game with Sun Prairie last evening, in which the locals were winners by the score of 55 to 24. Edgerton opened the scoring when a basket was made about a minute after the opening of the game, and was never headed. The Sun Prairie team were good sportmen and played a good clean game throughout. They were outclassed, however, and what scoring they did resulted mostly from long shots and free throws in the latter part of the second half. The Edgerton regulars were replaced by an entire new team. Clarke was the heaviest point getter for Edgerton, scoring twelve field goals and thirteen free throws. He also made one free throw. Williams six baskets, Lyons three, Ross two and Kepp one.

OREGON FOOTBALL EXPENSES CUT TO MINIMUM LAST YEAR

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Jan. 12.—Oregon Agricultural college, didn't defeat the University of Pennsylvania at football, neither did it win the championship of the Pacific Coast. But it did do one thing deserving of credit when it kept the expenses for its football team down to an average of $295 a team for the 1916 season. Nearly all this average was spent in paying traveling expenses of the players, $295 a man being doled out in this fashion. Twenty men were included in the transportation list. Coaches and fifty men came to $35 a man, and personal equipment for thirty-two men at $47 a head. Medical service for fifty men was $8 each.

EVANSVILLE LOSES GAME TO BRODHEAD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, Jan. 12.—After starting the season with two clean victories, the Evansville High School basketball quintette was forced to bow in defeat last evening to the tall lanky huskies which represented the Brodhead High School on the local floor. The final count of 35 to 14 is a poor indicator of the real game that was played. Brodhead was easily the better team and should have won by a decidedly wider margin and would have if it hadn't been for the speedy local forward, Hubbard, who was constantly on the alert and never tired in playing the whole game for his teammates.

Brodhead started the game with a rush and had scored a total of nine points before the locals got the sand out of their eyes and woke up to the fact that their feet were in the air. First blood was drawn by Holcomb when he tossed a free throw awarded to the visitors by Referee Curtis after a technical foul committed by Cain. After a minute of play, Johnson at center found little difficulty in out-jumping Tolles and Brodhead was enabled to work her signals and formations. Lyons scored stepped up his guard and scored. Skinner followed suit, caging a clean shot. Lyons repeated a moment later thus placing the locals on the small end of a long lead. All these centers were scored by the visitors on short passes and short shots after working the ball right down the floor and straight through the look five. Hubbard fished up a long counter after repeated trials over the long aerial route. Contrary to all orders and all coaching this season, the locals persisted in shooting the long shots and as a result team work was never attempted. No one in the entire game was able to get the ball off his own backboard. This in itself is sufficient to defeat any team in a close game.

To detail the entire game would be but to repeat the story as told for the first few minutes of playing time. Brodhead scored almost at will while the locals occasionally slipped a long one through the net. At the end of the first session Brodhead lead by a 15 to 2 score.

The score keeper's book tells the following story:—

Evansville, 14.
Brodhead, 35.
Lyons.....f.....Holcomb
Hubbard.....f.....Lyons
Tolles.....f.....Johnson
Cain.....f.....Skinner
Cain.....f.....Mills
Field goals: Holcomb, 2; Lyons, 2; Johnson, 2; Skinner, 2; Mills, 2; Libby, 1; Hubbard, 4; Cain, 1.
Free throws: Hubbard, 2; Holcomb, 1.
Referee: Curtis of Janesville.

Local Play Tosses.
The Evansville locals are scheduled to play the Brooklyn Tigers this evening at Brooklyn. This will be a return game and should prove to be a fast one. The locals were defeated here by some point two weeks ago. In the game this evening they will present the following lineup: Karst and Jones, forwards; McArthur, center; Arkes and Adams, guards. Records will also be in a uniform and may play in the game. Karst is one of the fastest floor men in the state and should be able to show his opponents a good time. The rest of the local lineup need no introduction.

Leonard Wahl, who resides a few miles outside of the city limits, has suffered the misfortune of losing two of his best horses as a result of their breaking. In his own words, he says: "What is a poor feed for a horse and too much of it is almost certain to cause death."

Mrs. Clarence Baker and Mrs. Edward Cole entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker entertained C. P. Silway of Minneapolis, at dinner last Thursday evening. Mr. Silway is manager of the Milwaukee branch office of the local Baker Mfg. company.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Halliburton announce the birth of a son, Friday, January 12.

Mass Meeting Successful.
The civic mass meeting held last evening at the high school proved to be one of the biggest community gatherings that has ever been held in this city. The program of the evening proved to be very interesting and instructive. The high school girls' glee club appeared and sang three numbers, all of which were well rendered. Dr. Spencer delivered the principal address of the evening, lecturing upon "Sanitary Science and Preventive Medicine." This subject proved to be a very timely one as Evansville at present is in the throes of an epidemic of mumps, measles and scarlet fever. His address should arouse cooperative effort on the part of the citizens which will aid in checking the epidemic. Prof. Waddell also addressed the gathering and was followed by Rev. Miller, who also delivered a few remarks.

INDOOR BASEBALL TO START AT UNIVERSITY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—Indoor baseball practice will start at the University of Wisconsin next week. With the return of "Slim" Lewis from the winter stove league, Badger ball players will start their preliminary work. But three men from last year's team remain to form the nucleus for the nine. They are Captain Fox, catcher; Brennan, second baseman; and Simpson, first base. Reese, an outfielder, has been declared out of activities for the remainder of the year. Plenty of material from the freshman team will be available for the coach.

DEFEAT WAUKESHA IN A SNAPPY GAME

High School Basketball Team Shows Real Class Downing Visitors, 19 to 8.

The Janesville High School basketball team proved to be too strong for the Waukesha boys, defeating them last night by a score of 19 to 8. The Waukesha boys had the advantage in size and weight, but size and weight did not decide the victory in this game. The visitors were a clean bunch of players, played a good game at guarding, but seemed to be weak at scoring.

Janesville is at last into the real game and every man proved worthy of his place on the floor. Kenning proved to be a worthy opponent of the tall Waukesha center and had the jump most every time. Davey is sticking guard and also has an eye for long goals. He broke his record this season by hanging up three baskets, and no slight remarks can be made about Hager who was at all times with the ball and who never let a man with the ball pass him without breaking up the play. Kober and Cushing the high star forwards ringed three baskets each.

The game opened with plenty of "pep" on both sides, and an enthusiastic crowd of spectators. During the first half Janesville did its greatest scoring. The half ending with six field goals and one foul goal to its credit. In the second half Waukesha held the local boys to a score of six to four. Morse substituted Hager during the last five minutes of the half. Following are the line-ups:—
Janesville: Kenning, c.; Cushing, Kober, f.; Hager, Davey, g.
Waukesha: P. Brockman, c.; St. Peter, D. Fender, f.; Christiansen, R. Held, g.

WINTER SPORTS POPULAR WITH MADISON STUDENTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—Students of the University of Wisconsin are to have plenty of winter sports this year if the the athletic board completes its plans for the winter. In addition to a skating rink on the lakes and skiing on the hills around the campus, the members of the board have voted to build a concrete toboggan slide for the use of the students. Previous to this time a wooden slide was used, but has proved unsuccessful in the past three or four years with the result of the definite move on the part of the board. An annual fee will be charged for the use of the slide.

BADGER FIVE GETS REAL TEST TONIGHT IN MINNESOTA GAME

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—Dr. Meanwell and his squad of nine basketball players representing the University of Wisconsin left Friday evening for Minneapolis, where the Badgers will clash with the Gophers on Saturday evening in what is expected to be a close and critical contest. A huge student demonstration started the basket men off on their journey. A student parade to the depot followed by speeches by the coach and prominent members of the team made up the celebration.

Dr. Meanwell in his short talk said that he expected one of the closest games in the history of the relations of Minnesota and Wisconsin on the basketball court. The Gophers have four veterans on their squad who have seen one or two years of conference competition, and are men of high caliber. Statsvold, one of the fastest forwards in the conference, according to Dr. Meanwell, is expected to make Olson and Carlson do some fine guarding if the Badgers wish to come out on the long end of the count.

All the men are in the best of physical condition with the exception of Carlson, who injured a finger at Evanston in the Northwestern game. He has been taking part in the scrimmage drill during the week and it is certain that he will start the contest. Olson will play the opposite guard, with Captain Lewis and McIntosh at forwards and Hemming at center.

Much depends upon the result of the contest, because the winner will have an excellent chance to place well up in the percentage column in the conference race. A victory for Wisconsin will give them a record of three victories and no defeats, which will place them ahead of Illinois, their opponents on next Saturday. Minnesota will make its first appearance in the title race. Up to the present time Coach Cook has spent his time in playing preliminary games in preparing his men for the Badger contest. Lewis is expected to do the bulk of the counting for the Badgers, as he has done in the previous games. The veteran captain has been playing up to form this year and as he graduates in February, he will put all his effort toward winning the remaining games before the first semester is over. McIntosh, the Edgerton player, has fully proved his value and will be given the call over Meyers for the other forward position. The lanky player from the Tobacco City is working in great style both on offense and defense, and will be a whirlwind before the season draws to a close.

MUCKS BACK IN RANKS OF BADGER TRACK TEAM

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—The return of Arlie Mucks, giant weight thrower, to the ranks of the Badger track men in addition to Tom Casey, dash man, has greatly increased the Wisconsin hopes of winning the track title again this year. Previous to the return of these two men, the chances for a championship were doubtful, but as they are sure point winners in all meets Coach Jones is wearing a more confident smile. The loss of veterans like Williams, Harvey, Houston and Merrill will seriously handicap the coach in their events, but the new material is very promising.
